AMERICAN DOGGED
BY BAD WEATHER

Lost Twice, Lands Twice, Enroute From Moscow to Novosibirsk

(By Associated Press)
IRKUTSK, Siberia, July 18.— Wiley Post, American round the world flier, landed here at 7:53 a.
m. in Salem.

He planned to take off again at eleven o'clock this evening (3:00 p. m. in Salem).

16 Hours Ahead of Record Post's arrival in Irkutsk put him 16 hours, 34 minutes ahead of the time made by Harold Gatty and himself in their round-the-world trip. Together they reached Irkutsk 91 hours 59 minutes out of New York. His arrival was 75 hours 25 minutes out of New York.

(By Associated Press)
NOVOSIBIRSK, Siberia, July 18.— Well ahead of the time he made for a similar distance in 1931, Wiley Post streaked for Irkutsk, Siberia, today, just two hours and 35 minutes after finishing an 1,818-mile flight from Moscow.

The doughty American round-the-world flier swooped down on the Novosibirsk field at 6:27 a. m.
(10:27 p. m. Monday, in Salem) and then, tired almost to the point of exhaustion, took off again at 9:02 a. m. (1:02 a. m. in Salem) with the intent on getting some badly-needed rest at Irkutsk.

Lost Twice
Post was lost twice on his way here from Moscow, and only his sense of direction, his automatic pilot having failed, enabled him to conquer fog and rain and to land safely here.

At one time he had to fly at an altitude of 21,000 feet, so bad was the fog. Once he landed in a field he did not know where. Again he landed near Tartarsk, 250 miles west of Novosibirsk, and once more, by sheer luck, he admitted, he found his direction.

He had left the Soviet capital at 5:12 p. m. Monday (9:12 a. m. in Salem), and arrived here 13 hours and 15 minutes later, and 60 hours, 17 minutes after leaving New York.

The Oklahoman had planned to fly directly to Khabarovsk, Siberia, his scheduled jumping-off place for the trans-oceanic jaunt, but bad weather, which had dogged him most of the way from the Ural mountains to Novosibirsk and caused him to land twice before reaching the latter point, forced him to decide to spend the night in Irkutsk.

Auto Tag Demand
Shows Increase

LISBON, July 18.—Since July 1, automobile licenses have been issued from the tax office here for 92 pleasure cars; 10 trucks, five traulers and transfers for 22 motor vehicles.

The demand for license plates shows the cost has been reduced has shown an increase over the corresponding quarter, as plates now cost one-half the fee charged Jan. 1, last.

Here's Post's Route On Globe Dash

Map shows the route Wiley Post is following on his solo round-the-world dash in an attempt to lower the record of 8 days and 15 hours he made with Harold Gatty in 1931. Post made his first stop at Berlin after a record breaking flight from New York in 25 hours and 48 minutes, averaging 146 miles an hour for the 3,961 miles.

County Prisoners
Granted Paroles

Two Columbiana county prisoners at the Mansfield state reformatory were granted paroles today by the state parole board.

They are Clarence Bowman, convicted for issuing a fraudulent bank check, and Edward Scharan, sentenced for stealing an automobile.

Both will be paroled on Septem-

CALLS HIMSELF
A "PET POODLE"

Hutton Had "Lots of Affection, But No Privileges"

(By Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, July 18.—David L. Hutton, who has filed suit for divorce from Amee Semple McPherson, coined his own phrase to describe his relationship to the evangelist.

"Pet poodle," he exclaimed, "I was just Amee's pet poodle! I had plenty of affection—yes, but no privileges."

And further: "I object to being 'Mr. Amee Semple McPherson.' I felt all the time as though I were living in some unreal, hectic realm —I was only a puppet waiting for someone to pull the strings."

In a direct message to the Examiner from the liner City of Havre, far out in the Atlantic en route to America from France, Mrs. Hutton today said "reports concerning divorces are preposterous."

To Hutton the evangelist sent this cable:
"Sweetheart: Reassure me your confidence." It was signed, "wifc."

Hutton did not reply.
"Shame may be witnessing in an entirely different vein tomorrow," he said. "Guess I'll wait and see how she feels about it all in another day."

C. S. Carr Leases
Room To A. & P.;
To Move Upstairs

Announcement was made today that C. S. Carr has leased his store room on E. State st. to the A. & P. company.

Carr will move his hardware stock to the second floor on Aug. 1 and will continue in business there as formerly. The room he will vacate has been used as a hardware storc for many years, Carr having succeeded his father, A. M. Carr, in the business.

It is understood the A. & P. company will combine in this new location its stores now located next to the Grand theater and next to the Citizens bank. A meat department will be added, it is reported.

Turn On Lights
URBANA, Ill., July 18.—Universwalk home in the dark next year, after all.

The city council rescinded a recent decision to turn off the street lights as an economy measure.

Increases Wages

MANSFIELD, O., July 18.—The Empire Steel corporation announced a wage increase of 5 per cent, which makes the minimum scale 31 cents an hour. The increase, which affects 1,200 employees, makes up for a reduction.

LOWELL THOMAS WILL SPEAK AT JURORS' OUTING

Noted Globe-Trotter to Be Guest of Honor at Event on July 26

LARGE CROWD TO ATTEND GATHERING

Fairmont Band to Play,
Free Dancing, Other
Features Slated

Lowell Thomas, famed radio news broadcaster and "headline hunter", will be a guest of honor and principal speaker at the annual picnic of the Columbiana County Jurors' association at Rock Springs park, Chester, W. Va., Wednesday, July 26.

Announcement that Thomas will be present at the outing was made today by James Stevenson of Lis-ben, common pleas court bailiff who was in Salem to arrange further details for the event. It will be the fourth annual gathering of the jurors' organization.

Speaks on "Strange Tales"

A large crowd is expected to attend the gathering at which Thomas will speak on the subject, "Strange Tales from Far Countries." His address, scheduled at 8 p. m., will be given through an amplifying system.

Thomas will be presented by Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones, Congressman Lawrence E. Imhoff of St. Clairsville, former Congressman Frank Murphy of Steubenville and other prominent persons, including many past and present county, city and state officials, will be introduced from the speakers' platform.

Thomas will be in Pittsburgh to give his daily "news flash" at 6 p. m. then will be rushed by automobile to Chester. In the event of rain his address and other features of the evening program will be held in Virginia Gardens.

Children's Band to Play

Stevenson announced as another feature of the gathering the appearance of the fairmount Children's home band of Alliance. The band will give a concert at 1 p. m. in front of the Elks home, West Fifth st., East Liverpool. The musicians will then be taken to Third st. and Carolina ave., Chester, and will march to the park.

The band will give three concerts, from 3 to 4, 5 to 6 and 7 to 8, at the park. Members will be guests of the Elks management at dinner.

Stevenson also announced that free dancing will be a feature at Virginia Gardens from 3 to 7.

Receive Details
Of Crawford Death

Details of the accident which in Brisbane, Australia, on June 9, resulted in the death of Thomas Crawford of Damascus were received today by Damascus relatives.

His death resulted when Crawford fell down a marble stairway leading into a cafeteria at Brisbane. He was accompanied by his niece, Miss Etta Crawford, when the accident occurred.

Crawford sustained a fractured skull and other injuries. He died two hours later in a Brisbane hospital.

The funeral service was held on June 10 at the home of his brother, Thomas Crawford, in charge of Rev.
Haley Wilson, pastor of the Church of England. Burial was made in Brisbane cemetery beside the wife of his brother.

'Nobody Wants Me,' Helen Sang; and -- 'Along Came Bud'

Wedding of Miss Morgan, Blues Singer, and Maurice Maschke, Jr., at New Castle, Revealed

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, July 18.—"Nobody Wants Me", a song that helped raise Helen Morgan to stardom as a torch singer, was discarded by her for another, "Along Came Bud", as she introduced her husband, Maurice "Maschke" Jr., of Cleveland, before a Chicago night club audience.

The marriage took place last May at New Castle, Pa. and was a secret until Miss Morgan, in characteristic position, sang a piano, sang her "Along Came Bud" song last night and the young Harvard law school graduate walked over to her side.

Future Up to Hubby
And as for her future—that's a matter that must be decided by her husband from now on. She said she was 28 and he was 25.

"We wanted to keep our marriage a secret for seven years," she said, "because I thought it was nobody's business."

Another reason for the desire for secrecy was because Miss Morgan and Maschke said they didn't know how his father, a former Republican national committeeman, would take the news.

But their fears on that score were removed when the elder Mrs. Mas-

Young Roosevelt Enroute To Chicago

Above—Elliot Roosevelt, second son of the President, and the former Elizabeth Browning Donner, who were divorced yesterday.

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, July 18.—Divorced from Nevada, Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the president, was reported enroute today from Nevada to Chicago, where he may meet Miss Ruth Googins of Fort Worth, Tex., with whom his name has been linked in a new romance.

Both young Roosevelt and the Texas girl, who is visiting Chicago's Century of Progress, however, have denied any matrimonial intentions.

Miss Googins could not be located at the hotel where she and her mother have been staying since July 9, but she was quoted in the Herald and Examiner as having said yesterday to attaches of the place:

"We won't be back tonight for we're going to meet Mr. Elliott Roosevelt in the morning."

APPROVE PLANS FOR FESTIVAL

Business Bureau to Cooperate in Proposed Legion Fete

Members of the Salem Business Bureau agreed Tuesday morning to lend their support to the American Legion in its plans for a festival to be held probably in September.

The Legion plans to conduct a parade, exhibits and other features of a home coming festival.

At this meeting of the bureau D.
J. Burcaw, justice of the peace, explained the new attachment has and answered many questions relating to the new provisions.

The bureau members were invited to Rock Springs park on Wednesday, July 23. Lowell Thomas, of radio fame, will speak and the Columbiana county jurors will hold their annual picnic there during the day.

Council To Meet

Members of city council will meet for their regular session at council chambers in city hall tonight.

Councilmen have announced that results of an investigation into sewage treatment plant costs will be reported at the meeting.

chke telephoned them that "father knows all and it's all right."

Then they told the story of their courtship—one of those old fashioned romances that went on for seven years. They met in Cleveland while she was playing there and it was in Cleveland last May that they decided to slip off to New Castle to be married by Justice Harrison M.
Reynolds.

Miss Morgan, a native of Danville, Ill., where her first "Blues" songs were sung to her mother as she perched on an ironing board, became a star under the guidance of the late Florenz Ziegfeld.

Singing In Night Club
She starred in both "Show Boat" and "Sweet Adeline" and it was in "Americana," another musical revue that she sang "Nobody Wants Me."

VOLUNTARY ACTION
IS SOUGHT BY U. S.

President Indisposed, He Leaves Discussion to "Council"

GROUP IS DIVIDED
ON "FORCE" PLAN

White House Advisors Uncertain as to Roosevelt's Course

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 18.—President Roosevelt left with his "recovery council" today the preparation of any general code for higher wages and shorter work hours, as he was confined again to his room by a slight indisposition.

Plan Second Session Arrangement was made for a second session of the administration's advisory group, composed of members of the cabinet and chief administrators of the various major recovery laws. They are divided of the necessity for immediate forceful action by the federal government to spur business consumption.

Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, apparently had ready a far-reaching proposal to bring about increases in wages and the shorter hours in labor immediately pending establishment of many of the new industrial codes to govern compensation and labor time.

Secretary Roper, chairman of the special cabinet board on industrial recovery, said he thought the voluntary action of industry in lining up behind the presidential program made a general "blanket code" unnecessary just now.

White house advisors were uncertain what course Mr. Roosevelt would pursue.

Hopes For Voluntary Action
He is known to be hopeful that American industry would voluntarily cooperate to the utmost, but he is also said to be ready to act if he is convinced it is necessary.

Attorney General Cummings, the ranking cabinet officer in the city, was appointed by the President to preside over the second meeting of the recovery council, called to meet in the President's executive office.

Lauds Labor And
Its Honest Reward

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 18.—President Roosevelt hopes for a future America in which rewards may be achieved "only through honest work."

Consequently, he last night told the nearly 300,000 hard-workers in 1,400 conservation corps camps throughout the country that they are "a visible token of encouragement," the "vanguard" of the new spirit.

"You are evidence," he said, "that we are seeking to get away as fast as we possibly can from soup kitchens and free rations—because the government is paying you wages and maintaining you for actual work—work which is needed now and for the future and will bring a definite financial return to the people of the nation."

Too long, he said, have many people "sought out success as an opportunity to gain money with the least possible work." Others should look at the civilian conservation corps, he remarked, and "cast away self-destrorying, nation-destroying efforts to get something for nothing."

Holds Rites Today
For Auto Victim

Funeral service for Rev. Frank W. Tyler, 56, who died Sunday morning at his home in New Castle, Pa., was to have been held at 11 a.
m. yesterday at the home.

Rev. Tyler died Sunday morning at his home of injuries sustained in an accident Saturday morning.
He was struck by an automobile while crossing a street in New Castle. He never regained consciousness.

Rev. Tyler, a former resident of Alliance, attended Mt. Union college and was a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. During his career he was a talented musician and had written poetry.

Besides his widow he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Brooke Miller, Garfield, and Mrs. Merle Thorne, New Castle; a half sister, who lives in New York, and one granddaughter.

Poultry Stolen

LISBON, July 18.—The J. T.
Crook farm, State Route 170, occupied by H. S. Huston, was robbed of 90 head of poultry of the Wyandott breed early Sunday morning, according to a report filed with the office of Sheriff Frank Ballantine.

It is believed that several men were concerned in the theft. The stock was of a special laying strain, and considered one of the most valuable of its kind in St. Clair township.

NEW PSYCHOLOGY NEEDED

Attorney General Cummings has probed into a vital spot in the thinking he has done about kidnaping. Deploring the failure of Americans to cooperate with agencies of law, he states that a new public psychology is needed.Last week, the attorney general advised immediate consultation with the department of justice in kidnaping cases. He stressed the department's preparedness for dealing with kidnapers and promised confidential treatment of information.Yet, there is little probability that his statements will alter the usual tendency to deal directly with criminals in kidnaping cases. A public confidence that has been shaken so severely by real and imaginary prejudices against public agencies of law enforcement cannot be restored overnight.It is well that Mr. Cummings has chosen to call things by their right names. A new psychology is needed; he will attempt to encourage its growth by realistic and vigorous methods in his important department. In return, he can expect the beginning of the new attitude which will make the business of crime a little harder to pursue.

POST-HASTE

Jimmie Mattern's bitter experiences in the Anadyr river valley and the fatal crash of two Lithuanian aviators in Germany after crossing the Atlantic ocean make a stern contrast to Wiley Post's second dash around the world.
Despite the manifest dangers of the project, his countrymen believe he will make it. They have extraordinary confidence in the post-haste flying of this man who seems to make his own breaks in the flying business.His experiences on this trip as well as the experiences of Mattern, the Lithuanian aviators, the Lind-berghs, the Italian squadron—of all people who call on airplanes for extraordinary and long-sustained performances—bring up the balance of calculable fault between the machine and its human operator. A Wiley Post, a Lindbergh and, more recently, an Italian squadron seem to possess a faculty of surmounting mechanical problems where others fail.Yet, behind their successes in flying lurk the same dangers whose constant presence so often has defeated others. Post had difficulty with his greatly publicized robot-pilot during the Atlantic crossing.
His plane needed repairs when he reached Moscow. Either a vigorous strain of luck or a genuine ability for getting things done, however, seems to bring him out ahead at such times.Ability probably is the explanation. That does not mean that Post might not be forced down in Siberia, as Mattern was. It does not mean that he couldn't kill himself making a landing, as the Lithuan-ians did. It means merely that he has demonstrated possession of a little more complete control over the circumstances which spell success or failure than the ordinary man can hope to have. Jimmie Mattern has the same ability, but to a lesser extent, apparently. He was able to survive after forced down; the chances are that Post won't be forced down under as great a pressure to keep himself alive.Besides being excellent flying, his dash around the world makes excellent reading. It is a success story in the making—the kind of story Americans favor most. Wanting a good ending, they are sure Wiley Post will provide it for them.HELENA, Mont. —Less "joy-riding" and other forms of motoring is going on in Montana these days, judging from automobile tax records, which showed a decline from $1,412,245 for the first six months of last year to $1,343,950 for the first half of the present year.

What Others Say

THE CONSISTENCY OF MR. FESS

One outstanding thing about U.
S. Senator Simeon D. Fess is his lifelong consistency of principle and policy. He has pursued always the legislative course which he led his constituents to believe he would.Senator Fess has had ample warning of the collapse of prohibition and ample opportunity to climb aboard the repeal bandwagon.Anybody who knows Fess has always known he would do no such thing. And, in his statement the other day, although admitting that repeal is imminent and that Ohio will cast its vote for ratification, he made it plain he is still opposed to the liquor traffic, arguing that for that reason he would qualify as a regular when the new dispensary laws are passed by Congress.Mr. Fess believes he will be both nominated and elected next year by the people who, while favoring repeal, want the forthcoming liquor traffic stringently regulated. But the point is that no matter what he might believe to be the political effect of his beliefs and doctrines he would not veer from them for the sole sake of being elected.People may differ with Senator Fess but they will respect his political firmness and stability, a policy which has carried him into the highest councils of his party and his country.—Ohio State Journal.

By O. O. McINTYRE.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Demand for enormous mansions, duplex apartments and pent palaces of the tittering twenties has shrunk along with everything else in the depression. Toy houses, like those in Holland, are in high favor. A Long Island community of tiny homes is now being formed.The art of interior decorating gives them a jewel box sparkle.
And the relief to a housewife's worries is pronounced. Domestically it's smart to be diminutive.The narrow house in Manhattan is at 75½ Bedford street in Greenwich Village. The lot is nine feet wide and 34 feet long.While the facade has been remodeled, the house was built a century ago. For several years it was the home of Edna St. Vincent Millay and on its top floor Miss Millay and Deems Taylor wrote the first American opera, "The King's Henchman." The interior measures eight feet across.Michael Arlen is building a Lilliputian chateau on the fringe tic heart interest. He is a young man in love. And as such is a perfect set-up for idolatry. Handsome, smartly dressed and magnificently boyish, he has all the qualification to bring fresh enthusiasm to a dying sport.Baer is hardly an example, for he has accomplished much in boxing in a short while. But it has struck me the most attractive men are those handsome athletic figures who do anything well that is absolutely no value. I mean the best gentleman rider at a horse show or a dare-devil polo player.The most engaging fellow I know is a cosmopolite who raises fancy Percherons in an European capital.

He has sky-larked through several fortunes and expresses many other traits found so often among the notoriously worthless. Even his conversation is invariably inconsequential but ever dazzling.The most elaborate penthouse among the literati is graced by John P. Medbury in the Sutton Place section. It is three floors high with 8 guest rooms, tennis and squash courts and a mosaic-lined swimming pool. Mr. Medbury is a syndicated humorist, scenario writer and talker on the screen. It was at a Medbury dinner a chorus girl guest said: "I loved your party. Everybody was so mental."If Broadway expresses the resilience of many of its characters it may bound back. The most proficient of its up-and-downers is Earl Carroll. In my more than 20 years on the sidelines watching, he has zipped out of the picture likea light on four occasions. Each time the rebound carried him higher.
When Carroll goes into seclusion to prepare for a new joust with theatricals no one sees him. He walks alone clinging to hidden by-paths.
Then suddenly there he is with a bankroll and new zest for battle—unsmiling, silken-voiced and utterly blatant!There's no place like the top of a Fifth avenue bus for a tired man to turn off his brain as a top is turned off. Like a sleepy man in a movie, one may follow the human picture, grasping nothing of significance or continuity. Just conscious that all about things flutter and flicker.
Last evening after gazing drowsily at the sidewalk flow my eyes fell upon a young girl in a seat in front, her chin cupped in hand pensively.
Near the Museum a young man look a seat beside her. In a gesture of obvious pretense, he inquired:
"Didn't I see you at the theater last night?" And so until talk fell to whispers. They finally went down the circular stairs to the sidewalk together. Not an elegant way for young folk to meet. But what can they do? Likely many happy marriages started off like that.And the horsey fellow behind me —a ringer for Tod Sloane—who talked of his sickle-hocked mare.
All the way to Washington Square I dozed, mulling such lines as "Dickery dock sickle hock swippety swopperty six o'clock!" You get a thing like that started and it will be no time before you are blither-ing.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York CityDo Not Neglect Ringworm It is probable that from now until the early fall I will receive many inquiries requesting information about "athlete's foot," or, as it is more commonly known, "ringworm". This disease has been extremely prevalent for the past two summers.Athlete's foot, or "dermatophy-tosis," the medical name for this affliction is caused by a parasite found at contaminated bathing beaches, public pools and gymnasiums. Contrary to a popular notion, the disease is of a serious nature and should not be neglected. I know of many cases that have resulted in serious infections which could have been prevented had proper measures been taken. When neglected the infection may spread up the leg and involve the skin and glands of the body.Prompt Treatment Essential Fortunately, the disease can be quickly checked if proper treatment is given at once. But too often persons resort to the use of patent medicines and other remedies. Cure is then delayed and is often made more difficult.Bear in mind that infections of the skin are difficult to cure and what may be good for one person is harmful to another. For example, an ointment that is prescribed for one case of ringworm may irritate a more sensitive skin. It is for this reason that I advise sufferers from this disease to place themselves in the hands of a physician.If you have been bathing at a public beach or pool and notice a reddish spot on the skin of the sole of the foot, do not neglect it. If it is ringworm it will become pale in the center and form a ring-like appearance. The outer part of the ring is raised, reddened and scaly; the inner portion is less conspicuous and the color gradually fades towards the center. The middle of the ring may be the same color as the normal skin or have a pale pink-ish appearance. This eruption may last for several days or even weeks when it will reappear elsewhere on the foot.Avoid Walking Barefoot I am glad to say that every effort has been made by public health authorities to prevent the spread of athlete's foot. This has been ac-Acid Stomach Big Factor

Mrs. Post Confident as Husband Started

Not even Wiley Post himself was more confident of success than was his wife, the former May Laine of Sweetwater, Texas. She watched him as he took off from Floyd Bennett Airport, New York, on his second round-the-world flight, hopped into a plane to follow him for a few miles and then returned to her hotel to anxiously wait for his return. Mrs. Post, then only seventeen, married the aerial globe trotter six years ago. While she has down frequently she has never learned to pilot a ship.

CHAPTER 32

"Yes!" he shrieked, "that's how I did it and I'm glad—glad.... Do you hear me?... I hated Brandt. He cheated me out of money—out of happiness—out of the only woman I ever loved—you!"

He turned suddenly in an ecstasy of self-torment and pointed a shaking finger at Margaret Manning.

"I asked you to marry me.... I could have given you more than he did.... He made my life a hell from that day—taunting me about you—"

Burton's voice rose to an hysterical crescendo.

"But I got even—I settled my score with both of you.... I was I who pushed Belice Manning off the roof.... I did it!.... Do you hear me?... You thought you had caused his death, Margaret—I made you believe that—I made Julius believe it.... Four years I tried to get that letter from him—then I'd have had you where I wanted you!.... For twenty years I stood it—and then I killed him.... and I got it.... I got it out of the safe.... You—you blundering fool!" he shrieked, turning to Martin, "you tried to stop me—but you didn't—you couldn't.... Nobody could stop me!"

He laughed, a dry, flesh-creeping cackle. The pant-up torment of years was overflowing in a festering torrent.

Ghastly Vainglory

"I was cleverer than he—cleverer than all of you...." he laughed at Grady, "you'd never have found who killed Brandt—as if those fools would have had the brains to do what I did!.... I could have led you around like this for weeks—playing with you—amusing myself...."

The man was transported, drunk with pride over his horrible accomplishments. His warped soul was stripped naked before his startled hearers.

"The Adaire girl came to my office.... She opened my desk—that's where I'd hidden the beard I'd worn when I'd bought the tickets.... She was stupid, but she might have guessed.... So I had to get rid of her.... I went to her apartment—nobody saw me.... And afterwards I washed the knife and put it back into the kitchen drawer—under your very nose!"

Again that horrible, demoniacal cackle.

"And you—I! he turned on Martin, "you were beginning to know too much.... But you never thought that I sent myself that telegram.... It was simple.... I nearly got you too!"

His voice rose to a scream. He panted for breath.

Suddenly his protruding eyes came to rest on the chair from which Martin had removed the dust sheet a few minutes before. A realization of what he had been saying seemed to penetrate his unbridled mind. Shaking with fury he wheeled again to Martin.

"You tricked me!" he shrieked, "you tricked me—I wasn't sitting in his chair at all.... It was a trick—"

Burton stepped back. He was a thing of horror. Beads of perspiration had gathered on his forehead and trickled along the cavernous hollows of his cheeks. Soliva foamed at the corners of his mouth.

With maniacal strength he wrenched himself free from Purley's restraining grip. One claw-like hand dived into his hip-pocket.

"Watch out—Grady—Purley!" Martin barked himself forward. The warning came a second too late. The auditorium of the Olympic theater reverberated with the echo of a sharp report. With a last gibbering imprecation, Matthew Burton slumped to the ground, a small, round hole drilled through his disordered brain. Twice his body twitched convulsively. Then it lay still.

The partner of Julius Brandt had been called to his accounting.

The district attorney bit off the end of a fresh cigar.

"Well!" he turned to the group assembled in Adolph Hertz's office, it worked. Don't mind admitting to you now for your idea—too theatrical, I thought."

Martin grinned.

"You'll have to forgive the aspiring playwright. After all—wasn't I done out of the finale of 'Phantom Fingers'?"

"There's only one thing I want to know," interposed Grady. "You've told us already about Burton's version with him and how she came up to your place and told you that J. B. and Mallory had never mentioned the securities in their telephone conversation. I get that part, and anyway we found the bonds this morning in Burton's own safety vault."

"And I get that about your putting two and two together about Burton's trick safe, figuring out he might have invented something or other to pull his murder stunt. But I don't know, what I don't know is how you got that air-tight alibi of his. The radio, announcer swore Burton was in the studio when it all happened."

"Well," replied Martin with an apologetic smile, "it was partly hypothetical and partly luck. It wasn't so much that I really believed Burton had done it, at first, as that it would be interesting to dope out a theory proving that he might have done it. Working backward, so to speak. When I write mystery stuff my villain is always the person you'd least suspect—and there was Burton and his alibi.

"While there was a pretty strong case against Gals Perino for Bonnie Adaire's murder, I couldn't tie him up with Brandt. I had a personal prejudice against Mallory, but he didn't impress me as the type who'd have the nerve to pull off a murder at a first night. Mrs. Manning—Sheela's mother—Burton did his best to throw suspicion on her, but—well—" Martin broke off abruptly.

Grady nodded understandingly.

"So the more I thought about it the more improbable it seemed that Burton could have done it," continued the author. "And illogically enough, the more convinced I became that he had done it. And if he had, in view of the alibi, there were only two ways he could have accomplished it—an accomplice or else by some mechanical agency."

"Corra, Gavin Field and Sterne each had their own ax to grind, but none of them had a reason to do away with Sam, either for himself or to get at me. Burton was the only one of the group who knew his way about Brandt's apartment. Knew Brandt was to be in the theater that night, and knew where he would sit. He also knew Bonnie. He was the only one of the group who came to my apartment with the exception, of course, of Mrs. Manning, whom I ruled out."

In other words, the only man involved in the affairs of all these people was the only one whose alibi was absolutely unshatterable. The idea was fantastic, but I couldn't get away from the fact that if I had been doing it out for a book I couldn't have thought of a better alibi for my murderer than a radio station—the testimony of tens of thousands of listeners—in. And this—"

"He threw Burton's cigar lighter on the table," this reminded me that Burton was an inventor."

Grady scratched his head. He seemed about to speak, but Martin rose hastily to his feet to forestall the tribute that he felt was coming.

"That was a swell break you gave me, Grady," he said, picking up his hat from the table. "I'm no end obliged to you for letting me have a chance to watch the wheels go round. Do me one last favor, old one—keep my name out of the whole mess, will you?"

There was a swift interchange of looks between Grady and the police commissioner. But before either of them could say a word Martin disappeared through the door of Adolph Hertz's private office.

"Wait a minute!"

A hand fell heavily on Martin's shoulder as he prepared to cross the lobby. The author turned and stared at the returning features of George Lansdowne.

"What's the rush, Martin?"

"Can't stop now, George—Grady's in there," he indicated the closed door, "he'll give you all the dope."

"Curious?"

"Yep!"

"Praise be—this lousy leg-work's nearly been the death of a once respected drama critic. Going to write another play?" Lansdowne's face twisted into a malicious grin.

"Nepe!"

"Say, what about Miss Manning, Martin?"

"What about her?" Martin's voice was vague. "Oh, I don't know—you might say she's retiring from the stage."

"And then what?"

"Sorry, can't stop now, George. I've got urgent business waiting."

He shook Lansdowne's hand impatiently from his shoulder and strode across the lobby.

"Yeah!" drawled the critic after him. "Well, don't keep her waiting too long."

Three States of South Will Vote In Test On Repeal

(By Associated Press)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 18—Three states of the deep south vote on repeal this week in elections which both friends and foes of prohibition recognize as a crucial test in the national campaign.

Alabama and Arkansas hold their elections today while Tennessee votes Thursday. Leaders on both sides in all three states claim victory.

The 16 states which already have voted have favored repeal. The repealists believe if they can swing the south into line their battle is virtually won.

For weeks, intensive campaigns have been conducted through the three states. Postmaster General

Farley capped the repeal campaign here this weekend, calling upon Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee to "keep the covenant" with President Roosevelt by voting to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

Repealists, stumping the voting states, have raised the issues of party loyalty and of states' rights—both dear to the Democratic south. Anti-repeal campaigners, many of them church leaders, have called attention to the south's dry traditions and warned of danger of return of the saloon and possible effects on social conditions. Repealists generally were in control of state organizations.

Slater Is Called In Postmistress Murder Mystery

(By Associated Press)

GALLIPOLIS, O., July 18—Ora Slater, the Cincinnati detective who solved the famous Nesbit murder mystery at Troy a few years ago, has been called to the aid of Gallia county authorities seeking a solution of the death of Mrs. Ruby Ely, postmistress of Addison.

Sheriff Elmer Hatfield and Prosecutor Elmer Cherrington enlisted Slater's aid after a partial analysis of Mrs. Ely's vital organs had disclosed no poison but showed a trace of a corrosive substance in the throat. The woman's husband, Frank Ely, 48, has promised his aid in prosecuting the slayer. Hatfield said.

Authorities have obtained no clues from lengthy questioning of Ely and Mrs. Ethel Wallace, former Gallia county nurse. Both are held in county jail where Steven Fico and Lida Ely, sister of Frank, are held as material witnesses.

The sheriff said Ely told him Mrs. Wallace last April gave him money with which to seek a divorce. He had not lived with his wife for some time before her death.

Hatfield said Lida Ely wrote several statements which he would turn over to Slater.

The sheriff also said he had ascertained that an attempt was made last June to kill Mrs. Ely, whose body was found in a cistern July 3. She at first was believed to have committed suicide or to have fallen into the water accidentally.

An investigation was started when neighbors reported seeing a man and a woman enter the Ely home the previous night and leave a short time later. Physicians said there was no trace of water in the woman's lungs, indicating she had not drowned.

I learned about "Toasting" from my husband

I used to think that "Toasting" was just an advertising phrase. But one day my husband explained to me what "Toasting" is—and what it does. Where he learned it all, I don't know, but I began to understand the difference in cigarettes. Now I find myself enjoying Luckies' mildness and fine taste with a new respect. But even more—since I am a woman quite sensitive to personal daintiness—and since my cigarette and my lips are so intimately related, I especially appreciate the comforting purity of "Toasting". Naturally, with me it's always "Luckies Please!"

SHARE MARKETS SEEK NEW PEAKS

Forced, However, to Go Over Heavy Profit-Taking Barriers

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 18.—Financial markets roared up the ascending price trail today but were forced to hurdle huge profit taking barriers as they reached the highest levels for the past two years or more.
Stock trading, during the early hours, was at about that fastest pace of the recent upswing and blocks of 5,000 to 30,000 shares of several of the favorites changed hands shortly after the opening. Gains of 1 to 4 or more points, however, were shaded substantially around noon and some of the alcohol even showed losses of 8 points before supporting orders enabled them to climb back.
With many of the more buoyant stocks turning irregular, the rails were taken up for advances of 1 to 3 or more. Cotton was firm, but wheat, corn and rye were a trifle nervous after initial gains of 2 or more cents a bushel. Barely soared 17 cents a bushel at one time. The dollar dropped to a new low in foreign exchange markets. Bonds were fairly firm.

The best advances in rail shares were registered by Union Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, Southern Pacific, Lackawanna and N. Y. Central. Canada Dry, Standard Brands and Crown Cork were heavy traders for gains of 1 to 2 as much as 5. DuPont, U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Libbey-Owens, Hershey, Alaska Juneau, McIntyre Porcupine, Dome, Western Union and U. S. Rubber were up 1 to 2 or more. Homestake mining ran up around 10 points. There were a number of declines of fractions to around a point.

Reno On Edge For Wedding of Jack Dempsey, Actress

BULLETIN
(By Associated Press)
ELKO, Nev., July 18.—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, and Miss Hannah Williams, Broadway musical comedy star, were married here at 9:29 a. m. today.

RENO, Nev., July 18.—Jack Dempsey's wedding, if and when he arrives with his intended bride for the announced ceremony, was the "talk of the town" here today.

The talk started last night after the former heavyweight champion announced in Salt Lake City he was on his way to Reno again, this time with Hannah Williams, the actress, and that the ceremony probably will be tonight.

Dempsey became officially a resident of Reno—his adopted home town—in 1931, when he came here to obtain a divorce from another actress, Estelle Taylor, of the films. Friends said they had no direct information concerning his plans and their speculations were based on the announcement from Salt Lake and reports from other points.

At Oakland, Calif., Max Baer, whose recent fight with Max Schmeling in New York, was promoted by the former champion, said the Dempseys and Baers will make a honeymoon foursome at a Roseville, Calif., ranch. Baer had just announced his home coming reconciliation with his wife, the former Dorothy Dunbar, one time actress.

Ancl Hoffman, Baer's manager, who owns the Roseville ranch, said Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey are expected as his guests, Wednesday.

Dempsey and Miss Williams have been visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Cecelia Dempsey, in Salt Lake City for several days. They planned to make the trip to Reno by automobile.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 18.—Estelle Taylor, the actress, wife of Jack Dempsey when the man mauler was the world's heavyweight champion, has nothing but good wishes for her former husband and his bride-to-be, Hannah Williams.

She said she was "very happy" to hear of the match between the two. "Miss Williams," said Miss Taylor, "is a very nice girl, and I am pleased for Jack's sake."

Asked is she herself intended to re-marry, she replied in the negative.

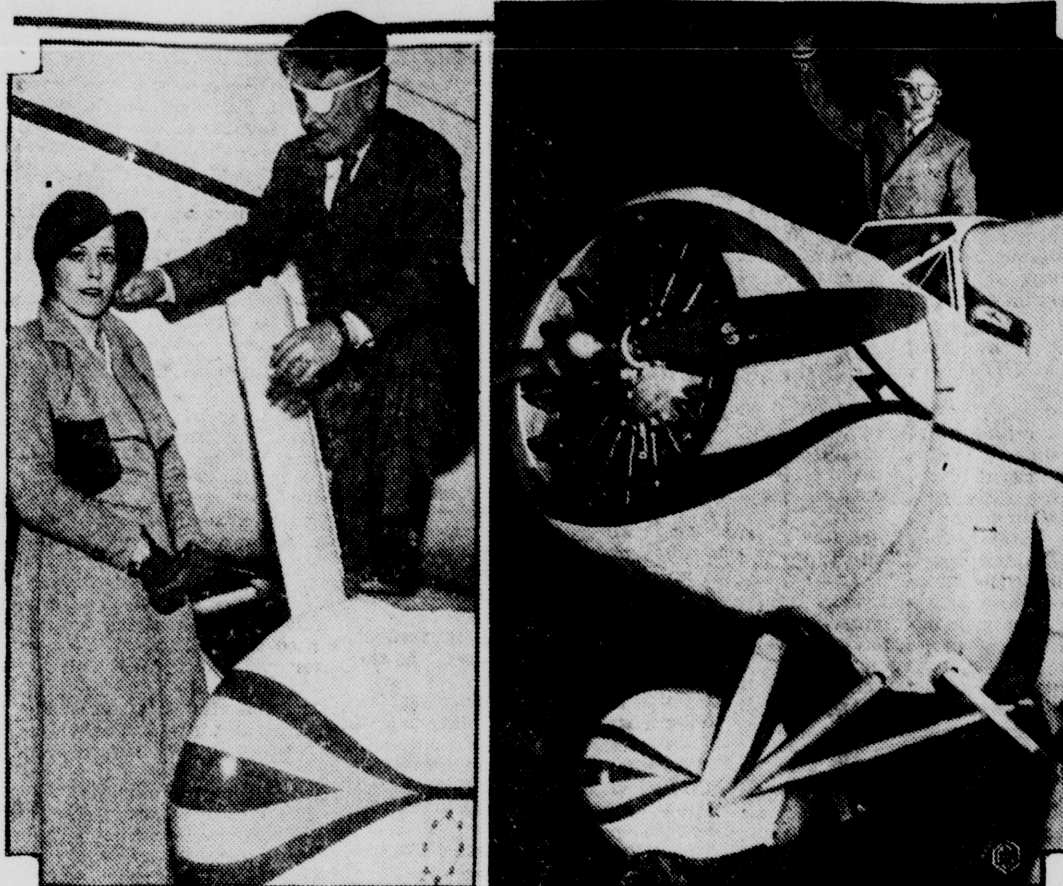

"My impression," she added, "is that most eligible men nowadays have difficulty feeding themselves and their dogs, so it looks like I haven't much chance to marry."

SAD NEWS

By Arthur Brisbane
(Copyright, 1933 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

BEGINNING yesterday, approximately 1,000,000 workers in this country had their salaries increased, and, to a great extent, restored to the 1929 pay level. The pay increases applied to 700,000 textile workers.

This army of 1,000,000 with the old buying powers restored, and with the other millions to follow, accompanied by a more plentiful distribution of dollars, will, under wise management, settle the depression problem. Trading the gold standard for good times is a good trade.

IT IS SAD news about the two courageous Lithuanians, Captain Darius and Lieutenant Gienas, who, to honor their country, undertook a flight from New York to Kuanas, capital of Lithuania. Their bodies were found yesterday in a forest near the Pomeranian village of Soldin, 100 miles north of Berlin.

They had successfully crossed the ocean, but lost their direction in bad weather, their gasoline gave out, they crashed at terrific speed in a dense forest and were killed instantly.

They left the United States without license or permission to depart. They need no such permission for the long flight that they have now begun.

Wiley Post, still flying, is beating his own record. As the bodies of the two brave Lithuanians were found, Post was about taking off from Koenigsberg, East Prussia, on the way to Moscow or beyond.

THINGS HAPPEN in Germany that once happened only in comic opera or farce. A German newspaper, the Deutsche Zeitung, is suppressed, its editor imprisoned, because that newspaper printed a statement taken from a Jewish newspaper published in Vienna, to the effect that the great Italian flyer, Balbo, is of Jewish descent.

The German government said this was "calculated to stir up ill feeling between Germany and Italy," so the paper was suppressed, the editor jailed.

What would Mr. Hitler do if a German editor should print an article alleging that the founder of Christianity was the son of a Jewess?

ONE REALLY great Italian traveler was by descent a Spanish Jew, namely, Christopher Columbus. His Jewish uncles are said to have done more than Queen Isabella to finance him. The Semitic race have long been pioneers in travel. From the east end of the Mediterranean the Phoenicians were the first to go out past the Rock of Gibraltar, explore the Atlantic and open up the Philistia tin mines. They were first to sail out of sight of land, having no compass, navigating by the stars.

GENERAL BALBO, leader of the Italian flying fleet, decides that the southern route is safer than the northern, by which he came. Delays in Iceland present the main obstacle on the northern journey. When real flying comes, as it will soon, routes will make no difference.

As Captain Hawks predicts, planes bound on long journeys will rise in the air five or six miles beyond the reach of storms, fog, clouds and high winds, and make a bee line to their destination.

As the bottom of the ocean is always calm, so the top of our atmosphere is always calm, with a gentle wind blowing always toward the east, caused by the eastward motion of the planet.

FIVE AMERICANS, arrested in Spain, for an alleged fight with the civil guard, are amazed because such a fuss is made about it, "why in New York that would be just a night court matter."

Many Americans would be surprised to know the respect with which law and its representatives are treated in Europe. There crime is taken seriously and the kidnapping or "snatching" industry doesn't even exist. Europe believes that the public should set the example of respect for law.

Report Harriman Ready To Return

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 18.—Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey today ordered forfeited the $25,000 bail under which Joseph W. Harriman, the banker who disappeared yesterday from a nursing home, had been at liberty pending trial on charges he falsified the books of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company.

This action was taken coincidentally with receipt by police of a report from an undisclosed source that Harriman would return today to the nursing home in East 61st street from which he "slipped away" Monday.

Judge Caffey ordered a bench warrant issued for Harriman's arrest.

The court's action came when the inquiry to determine whether Harriman was mentally fit to stand trial on the indictment was scheduled to be resumed.

After police had made an investigation of the tip that Harriman was to return shortly to the nursing home they announced that the tip had no foundation. An ambulance service which, according to the tip, was to bring Harriman back, said it had no information about it at all.

THE DAY IN SPORTS

OHIO SPORTSMEN MEET

HUNDREDS of Ohio sportsmen, including some from Salem and other Columbiana county cities, are expected to attend the annual Ohio Sportsmen's Outing which will be held at Camp Perry on July 28, 29 and 30. Gov. George White and William H. Reinhart, Ohio conservation commissioner, will visit the camp.

Sportsmen attending the event will be billeted in the military camp and will dine in an army mess hall. There will be opportunities to fish in Lake Erie or at East, West and Middle Harbors nearby and at Put-In-Bay and the Islands. Boats will also be available for trips to state and federal fish hatcheries and other scenic spots of the district. A trapshoot, coon dog field trial and other sporting events will be held. A campfire program, with few speeches, is also planned.

It's a fine, inexpensive three-day vacation that the state will be holding. The cost is $1.50, covering expenses for six meals during the three days. No charge for sleeping quarters. Justice of Peace Donald J. Burcaw, secretary of the county Fish & Game Protective Association, announces.

SPORTS WRITERS covering the Princeton—Cornell Oxford—Cambridge track meet last Saturday had one of the real thrills of the business. They saw and described for their papers what undoubtedly was the greatest mile race of all time. An Oxford runner, Jack Lovelock, finished in the incredible time of 4:07.6. Seven yards behind him came a Princeton runner, Bill Lonthorn, who finished in 4:08.7. Both performances were better than the former record of 4:09.2, established by Jules Ladoumègue, a Frenchman, two years ago.

Such a race beggars description and provides in itself far better comment than enthusiasm for it can produce. Whether or not it is familiar with the traditions of the track, he cannot help but participate in a certain amount of admiration for the achievements of these two great runners who have inscribed their names on the permanent records of extraordinary accomplishment.

Few people unprivileged to attend those rare gatherings of runners in which almost superhuman records are to be expected to have seen a mile run in less than five minutes and a half minutes. In all probability, it will be many years before anyone sees a human being travel again for four minutes at the rate of almost 15 miles an hour. The limit of human capacity has been crowded to shades of seconds.

Back of the splendid running of Lovelock and Lonthorn lie countless hours of conscientious preparation necessary to train excellent coordination to that point of innermost from which championship performances can be struck off under exactly the right conditions. Sportsmen and all people who can admire successful efforts to bring the human body to that state of ultimate perfection which challenges the halting performances of mediocrity unite in praise of these two new immortals among the world's greatest athletes.

BAPTISTS UPSET LUTHERAN TEAM; COLUMBIANS WIN

Concord Presbyterians In 14-5 Defeat; Race for Title Close

The leaders:	Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Columbians	3	1	.350
Trin. Lutherans	3	1	.350
Baptists	3	1	.350
Presbyterians	3	1	.350

Four teams were sharing first place laurels in the city's interesting church league race as the Holy Trinity Lutherans, previously undefeated and in undisputed possession of the lead, bowed in defeat before fine play of First Baptists, 11-7, at Centennial park Monday evening.

Baptists Win Easily The Baptists needed but four innings to roll up their one-sided score against the strengthened Lutheran team. They tallied five runs in the second inning, one in the third and five more in fourth and had everything their own way when the game was called at the end of four and one-half stanzas of play.

The defeat of the Trinity squad now involves the Baptists, St. Paul Columbians, First Presbyterians and Lutherans in the four-way tie. Each has won three games and lost one.

The Columbians pulled up into ranking as one of the leaders again, as they swamped the Concord Presbyterians, 14-5, in a one-sided contest yesterday.

League Interesting The church league continues to rank almost even with the city's Class A circuit which opened the third round last night. The Columbians won the first half championship in the minor circuit and will, at the close of the present round, battle it out with the new champions if they don't repeat.

Brundage Wants to See Cunningham, Lovelock In Race; Predicts Record

(By Associated Press) CHICAGO, July 18.—Any time Jack Lovelock, the amazing mile runner from New Zealand and Oxford, gets around to better his new record of 4 minutes, 7.6 seconds, it will be no surprise to Avery Brundage, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of America.

Nor will he be astonished if an American, Glenn Cunningham, of Kansas, better Lovelock's mark, and beats the New Zealander if they meet.

"From what I have read, Lovelock was not used up in his truly remarkable achievement," Brundage said. "I think it probable, rather than possible, that he will go on to beat his own astonishing record."

"Cunningham, however, was not given serious competition when he ran his 4:09.8 mile in the national collegiate meet, and he would not only give Lovelock the competition necessary to beat the newest mark, but might go just a little farther and beat him.

"Anyway, I would travel a long way to see Lovelock and Cunningham in a mile duel. That would be the race of the century if both were in top condition."

PIRATES DEFEAT DODGERS TWICE

Bucs Recover From Long Slump To Win By 14-2, 7-0 Scores

(By Associated Press) Recovered from a betting and pitching slump that threatened for a time to plunge them into the second division, the Pittsburgh Pirates were back in the thick of the National league pennant fight today.

The pitchers clicking again and their highly-touted outfield, especially Paul Waner and Freddie Lindstrom, beginning to wallop the ball the Pirates have won eight games of the 12 they've played since the home stand began and now trail the second place Chicago Cubs by only half a game and the pace-setting New York Giants by four.

Taking full advantage of the fact that they had the major league stage all to themselves yesterday, George Gibson's hopefuls battered Brooklyn pitching for 32 hits, good for 44 bases, and trounced the Dodgers in both ends of a double-header, 14-2 and 7-0.

The double defeat left the Dodgers only a half game ahead of the seventh place Phillies and only 2½ games out of the cellar.

All other major league clubs were idle.

MULLINS BEATS DAIRY; CHICKS UPSET POTTERY

Uninteresting, One-Sided Games Played As 3rd Round Is Opened

The third round of the Class A softball league was opened uninterestingly at Centennial park Monday evening with the Mullins Foremen's club and Chicks triumphing in two one-sided and uninteresting contests.

Each game in itself was a reason why crowds at league games this season are decreasing. Mullins trouncing the Famous Dairy, 14-5, while the Chicks bowled over the Salem China company, 14-3.

The Pottery played with only eight players, a handicap too much for the best teams to overcome, and the Chicks had no trouble cracking out into uncovered outfield areas and won coasting.

Mullins scored in every inning to outclass the Famous lads.

SHERIFF'S SALE IN PARTITION

General Code, Secs. 12037, 11681 Case No. 23979.

The State of Ohio, Columbiana County, Common Pleas Court. J. Charles Boone, plaintiff vs. Leah R. Beardmore, et al, defendant. Notice is hereby given that on Friday the 21st day of July A. D. 1933, at the hour of 2 o'clock, P. M. I will offer for sale at public auction on the premises in Salem, Ohio, the following premises, situate in the County of Columbiana and State of Ohio, and in the City of Salem, Ohio, being a part of Lot 745 Appraised Addition to the Village (now City) of Salem, Ohio, and for a further description, commence at a point formed by the intersection of the West line of Union Street and the North line of State Street (formerly McKinley Avenue) in Salem, Ohio, thence West 100 feet to a point and to the place of beginning, thence North 187 feet to a point, thence West 120 feet to a point, thence South 187 feet to a point on the Northern line of State Street (formerly McKinley Avenue), thence East 120 feet to the place of beginning. But subject to a right of way 12 feet in width and extending West 50 feet from the Northeast line of the heretofore described property, in common with the Baptist Church of Salem, Ohio, to be used as a right of ingress and egress to their respective properties. Appraised at $500.

Said premises to be sold as the property of the parties to the above action, on an order of sale in Partition, entered in the Common Pleas Court of Columbiana County, Ohio, and directed to me the undersigned Sheriff. Terms of sale: CASH. Given under my hand this 16th day of June, 1933.

FRANK BALLANTINE, Sheriff of Columbiana County, O. by W. T. Ballantine, Deputy. COONE & CAMPBELL, Attys. (Published in Salem News-June 26 & 27; July 3, 11 & 18, 1933.)

Defies 'Em to Put Him Out

Local authorities at Malden, Mass., weren't in such a hurry to evict Ex-Councilman Frank E. Simpson from his home after they saw him appear at a window with this armament. The eviction order was obtained by a bank on a note.

The Happiest Girl in Montreal

Life's biggest moment came for this little Italian girl in Montreal when General Italo Balbo, leader of Italy's great air armada, posed with her before a battery of cameras during the welcoming ceremonies following the aerial flotilla's arrival at the Canadian city. The little girl was first to greet the fliers when they came to rest on the waters of the St. Lawrence.
